Mrs. Ruth Knew Doctor Who Would Give Opium, Brother Asserts

WILLIAM J. WOODFORD, New York attorney, who formerly lived in Boston, insists that his sister, Mrs. "Babe" Ruth may have been doped with opium when burned to death.

"She told me she knew a doctor who would give her opium tablets," said Woodford.

"Who is this Dr. Kinder and what had he to do with my sister. I want to know this and I want to know what significance there is in the remark she made in New York that she knew a doctor who would give her opium tablets.

"I'm going to get to the bottom of this thing if it takes the rest of my life."

Hope Autopsy Will Not Interfere With Plans For Mrs. Ruth's Funeral

DIST. ATTY. ROBERT T. BUSHNELL, of Middlesex County ordered Medical Examiner George L. West to perform a complete autopsy on the body of Mrs. Helen Woodford Ruth, the burial of which was held up pending receipt of the medical examiner's report.

Bushnell said he expected the autopsy would be completed today and he hoped there would be nothing in it to interfere with the plans of the family for funeral arrangements or with the disposition of the body.

The district attorney said he saw no reason for questioning Babe Ruth, who, stricken by grief, is shut up in a Boston hotel.

Bushnell added he had no interest at this time in questioning Dr. Edward H. Kinder.

DR. KINDER QUIZZED IN RUTH'S WIFE'S DEATH

Pale and unquestionably nervous, Dr. Edward H. Kinder, in whose Watertown home, where she lived as his wife, Mrs. "Babe" Ruth was burned to death, suddenly stepped out of an automobile at Watertown police headquarters today and with his counsel, James H. Vahey, hurried inside for questioning.

CHARGES 'BABE' WAS SEEKING DIVORCE

By BERT FORD

"Babe" Ruth, just a month ago, demanded that his wife, fire victim in Watertown, divorce him that he might marry another woman and give her child a name.

This was the declaration today of Miss Nora Woodford, 19, sister of Mrs. Ruth, as she, with her mother and brother John, sat in the Woodford home at 420 West Fourth st., South Boston, waiting for the sister's body to be brought from the undertaker.

And at the end of the daughter's interview, the mother, Mrs. William Woodford, charged that the wife of "Babe" Ruth "never died from an accident."

"I went over to New York with my sister Helen, 'Babe' Ruth's wife, on December 10, at my sister's request," said Nora.

"She wanted me as a witness. 'Babe' Ruth sent for her to arrange divorce proceedings."

"We went and interviewed my sister's lawyer, Attorney John Condon, before we went to the Yankees' headquarters and saw 'Babe' Ruth in Christy Walsh's office. Walsh was present at the entire interview, but didn't say anything."

"We had not come accompanied by my sister's lawyer. He

DEAD WIFE'S SISTER SAYS 'BABE' RUTH WAS SEEKING DIVORCE

WHEN MOTHER LOVE RULED

MRS. RUTH AND LITTLE DAUGHTER
This photo, made several years ago, shows the wife of "Babe" Ruth, homerun king, and Dorothy Helen, their little daughter. Then no shadow of tragedy had been cast in their lives.

Tragedy Is Second Tangle for Ruth

The present Watertown tragedy and the mystery surrounding it make up the second weird tangle in which Babe Ruth has found himself involved.

The first was in 1923 when baby-faced Dolores Dixon, 15-year-old New York orphan, attracted the world of sports by her pastels, and elaborately by detailed story of how she had been forced and won and cast aside by the big baseball player.

Miss Dixon sued Ruth for $50,000, alleging him to be the father of her unborn child. In support of her claim, she described her introduction to Mr. and Mrs. Ruth, Ruth's infatuation with her, clandestine meetings in which he and she participated, and her eventual capitulation to the home run king's courtship.

Dolores said she was "Babe" Ruth's girl, his "little white charm." He presented her dresses for her in her room, she said, so that she could give her full attention to curling her hair in preparation for an excursion in his company. She told of repeated trips to Babe's big room and of a voyage on a pleasure boat where Babe had taken her because so tired as to sleep in her arms.

To the Dixon girl's circumstantial charges Babe's answer from the stars was "blackmail," she said. "I know Dolores," he said, and had never heard of her until he was served with the preliminary papers of her suit.

Equally unconvincing was the attitude of Mrs. Ruth. She and her husband and their daughter, Dorothy, were all living together at the time. She characterized Miss Dixon's story as "absurd," a "smoking attempt at a hoax."

While the country was still buzzing with the alleged scandal it and only collapsed. Mrs. Dixon's counsel withdrew from the case. The girl herself asked that the suit be dropped.

Ruth indignantly demanded that the whole business be thoroughly aired in court, but his efforts at a showdown were unavailing. Before dropping out of the picture completely, an investigation by the New York district attorney's office traced.

Babe and Mrs. Ruth issued statements of satisfaction at the "repose" of the "fraud," and Dolores Dixon, still a mysterious figure, was crowded off the front pages by newer thrills.

MRS. RUTH'S BODY HELD FOR COMPLETE AUTOPSY

dered by Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bushnell, following a "decidedly important" conference with Medical Examiner George L. West.

Following the conference, via telephone, the district attorney said that so far there was no evidence of any criminality in Mrs. Ruth's death, but he wanted the contents of the stomach particularly examined.

No opium or traces of opium were found in the body in the first autopsy, Bushnell said, despite intimation by a brother of the dead woman that Mrs. Ruth may have been doped with opium when she met her death.

Dist. Atty. Bushnell declared he would not question either "Babe" Ruth or Dr. Kinder in connection with the case.

With regard to Dr. Kinder's alleged falsification of a police record in giving the name of the burned woman to police as "Mrs. Kinder," the prosecutor said Watertown police would take care of that matter.

The order for further investigation came as arrangements were being completed to hold the funeral tomorrow. Claims of the family of Dr. Kinder that she and Kinder were married at Montreal some months ago were discounted today when search of the records in the Canadian city failed to reveal this particular record.

At the same time, William J. Woodford, former Boston attorney now of New York, a brother of Mrs. Ruth, declared the reason no record of her marriage to "Babe" Ruth at Providence in 1915 could be found was that the marriage took place in 1913.

Woodford said the couple were married October 17, 1913, at St. Joseph's Church, Providence, by Fr. Kelley.

Says Sister Told Him About Opium Tablets

But later today a spokesman for Ruth said his marriage to Helen Woodford took place in October, 1914, at Elliott, Md., a suburb of Baltimore, and not in Providence.

It was William J. Woodford who revealed that Mrs. Ruth had told him on one occasion that she knew a doctor who would give her opium tablets.

With the entire astounded nation—and especially the nation of baseball fans—watching, the work of clearing up a number of mysterious features about the case went on today.

Mrs. Ruth's brothers, the New York attorney, and Thomas Woodford of Dorchester, were to visit Dist. Atty. Bushnell of Middlesex County today to demand a full investigation.

Thomas Woodford is outspoken in his belief that foul play led to the death of his sister.

"I believe my sister was the victim of foul play," he said, "and will make on a most thorough investigation of the cause of her death. It is mine that she and 'Babe' Ruth were divorced. They were coming to make their home together again."

Two weeks ago Helen (Mrs. Ruth), her daughter, Dorothy, and a younger sister, Nora, went to New York to visit Ruth. They spent several days at the Hotel Commodore. Dr. Kinder's story that he was married to my sister is a detestable lie."

Dist. Atty. Bushnell declared that there is at present nothing on which he deems it necessary to hold Dr. Kinder, but considers that the doctor should feel it expedient to make an appearance and clear up what parts of the mystery that remain.

Kinder's father, William F. Kinder, is bitter in his denunciation of statements accusing his son. He contends that Dr. Kinder and Mrs. Ruth were married in Montreal, a year ago last August.

"Edward has known Mrs. Ruth for a long time," he said, "and 'Babe' Ruth were also friends. After the Ruths were divorced, my son and Helen were married and were very happy in their matrimonial life."

Dr. Kinder was in the home of a neighbor on the night of the fire. Dr. Kinder is a native Scotch-Born. He and Mrs. Ruth are said to have been schooling and school-teacher. After Mrs. Ruth was separated from Babe Ruth she went to live with her parents.

Dr. Kinder moved to Watertown in 1927. In May of that year he purchased the pretty cottage on the hill in the exclusive Orchard Park section of Watertown.

When Dr. Kinder moved in with "his wife and child," neighbors were given to understand that they had been married in Montreal some years before. Mrs. Ruth told this to several women friends, they say. She also told them that she was a "sister-in-law" of Babe Ruth, the famous baseball star.

These insinuations were quickly countered by "Mrs. Kinder" whenver little Dorothy inadvertently dropped remarks about Babe Ruth. Her mother on such occasions was evasive, and finally refused to discuss the subject further. I had almost forgotten the remark on a telegram came to me in New York."

The telegram read: "Come at once, Sister Helen died Mother."

The tragic death of Ruth's wife brought to light a strange marital tangle in which Dr. Kinder played a prominent part.

For two years Ruth's wife and child were thought by neighbors in Watertown to be Dr. Kinder's wife and daughter. Dorothy Ruth, age nine, a pupil in the Academy of the Assumption in Weymouth, was known as "Helen Kinder" in Watertown.

Some neighbors claim her father, the "Home run King," visited Mrs. Ruth and Dorothy at the Kinder home, 47 Quincy st., where the tragedy took place, and also visited the child at the exclusive school in Weymouth. Other neighbors claim that Babe Ruth never had even entered the Kinder door.

This photo of little Dorothy Ruth was made recently at the Wellesley convent where she is a student. The child is motherless today, but the sad news has not as yet been imparted to her.

This is a photo of Mrs. Ruth just before she was married to the Babe. Note the unmistakable resemblance between his photo and the picture above. Ruth said he and his wife had parted three years ago.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

The above photo of Babe Ruth and his wife and daughter shows them at the Yankee Stadium. It was one of the last pictures taken of the Ruth family. The other photo is a recent one of the King of Swat, who, up to time of being summoned to Boston, had been reducing in preparation for the training season in the South. The Babe has been training faithfully during the past few weeks and was looking forward to a great season, aiming to take another shot at his home run record. Fandom was shocked today to learn of the tragedy that came into Babe's life.

Baseball's idol is shown visiting his wife in a New York hospital when she underwent a minor operation. This photo was taken some time before the couple parted, and when they were apparently very happy. Ruth met his wife in a restaurant on Huntington ave. long before he achieved fame on the diamond. The many happy days the couple spent at their Sudbury home are sacred memories to Ruth in his hour of sorrow. At that time the couple, a popular host and hostess, entertained many of their friends.

This is the original of the statement which Babe Ruth read to the press at the Hotel Brunswick. After reading it to the reporters, Ruth gave it to the Boston Evening American. It was all Ruth had to say of the tragedy which made a grief-stricken man of the big baseball hero.

BEWARE of Coughs that Follow FLU

They Weaken Your System and May Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and acts as a gentle laxative. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and helps check the growth of the germs.

In addition to creosote, Creomulsion contains cascara, wild cherry, syrup of white pine with tart, menthol, ipecac and licorice root, the combined effect of which is to dislodge and loosen up the phlegm, produce a cooling, soothing, healing effect on the inflamed mucous membranes and act as a gentle laxative. Creomulsion contains no narcotics, nor anything harmful. It can be safely given to children—they like its pleasant taste.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from flu and colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately.

Caution!
A hard, racking cough from flu keeps the system weak and run down—making it easy to have a relapse, or catch colds or develop something more serious. By relieving the cough, Creomulsion helps the system regain its strength. Its use should be continued several days after securing relief so as to get the most benefit possible.

the doctor and her little child. The new developments have been a great surprise to us all."

While Mr. and Mrs. Saxe were being interviewed, Ruth's dog was seated on the stairway, with her daughter Dorothy. The dog was growling at the reporters and standing at the collar held by the girl.

"I found the head of the mother," said Mrs. Saxe, "and on coming out on the front porch I was surprised to see that the mother was all alive. A crowd had gathered. I could hear someone shouting. There is a woman in there. There is a woman in there!"

"A little later a friend brought me into my house where they worked over her. I think she was dead when they brought her into my house, however."

Chief John J. O'Hara, of the first department, learned that there was an outburst in the house. But that did not cause the fire or did not have anything to do with it, according to him and his associates who were satisfied that the fire started in the living room and spread upward.

Death certificates filed with the town clerk of Watertown, on Saturday, gave the name of the victim as Helen Kinder, instead of Helen Ruth.

"I have had find at me all day the question, 'Was she a drug user?' My examination of the body showed no such condition."

The identification was made at 5:30 Sunday morning by Mrs. Ruth's two sisters, Nora and Catherine Woodford, 40 and 42 Fourth st., South Boston.

The "home run king" arrived in Boston, and retained Attorney John J. Fenwick, with whom he had returned from Philadelphia, N. C., a few days ago. Attorney Fenwick made a personal investigation at the scene of the fire.

James H. Valey, Thomas McArthur, Attorney Fenwick, and Mrs. Ruth, formerly a Boston police officer, and assisted in the long inquiry in the Mahable Mathewson mystery. Woodford said he had no son to think his sister was a victim.

Dr. George L. West, medical examiner, performed an autopsy on Mrs. Ruth's body in the mortuary at Newton Hospital, Sunday afternoon. After the autopsy, Dr. West said:

"There was nothing that would indicate foul play. I found no signs of poison, liquor or drug. There was no suffocation and no strangulation."

"Incidentally, after the body was identified by the woman's sisters, I had the death certificate signed by 'Mrs. Helen Ruth' instead of 'Helen Kinder.'"

Dr. West said that the death certificate and other forms were filled in by the woman's sisters, and that the information was furnished by Dr. Kinder.

Ruth Gave $25,000 to His Wife Each Year

"BADE" RUTH and his wife had been separated for three and a half years, it was said today by the man probably closest to the ball player.

They remained friendly, however, and each October 1, the "babe" by voluntary agreement, paid her $25,000.

On each visit of three "babe" to Boston, except on one trip last August, Mrs. Ruth came in town each night with Dorothy and they had dinner with the Yankee slugger.

The last World Series was the only one participated in by Ruth which his wife failed to attend, and this failure was because of illness.

The domestic picture was further clarified when, before a long lunch today, the "babe" paid her $25,000 from the cash and the suit failed.

Mother's Death Only a 'Dream' to Dorothy

Apparently unaffected by news of her mother's death, being unable to realize the full significance of it yet because of her age, eighty-year-old Dorothy Ruth attended classes and rumped about at play as usual today at Academy of the Assumption School, Wellesley Hills.

Careful plans were made by the family, Ruth, and her attorney to break the news to her gently, but according to one of the sisters in charge at the school, the girl had already heard it.

"Another child learned of it and it quickly reached Dorothy's ears," said this sister.

"But she is too young to take it all in and she hasn't shown any signs yet of being affected by it."

It is understood Dorothy will be permitted to attend the funeral and will, for a time at least, live with her mother's family in South Boston.

Ruth wanted to rush out to Wellesley in a taxi and see her child the moment he reached Boston, but friends, fearing that the crushing news was threatened to knock him down, talked him out of his plan.

The school authorities had been informed as early as last Saturday, through Dr. Kinder's family. It is understood of the death of Dorothy's mother.

Her mother's death revealed the fact that little Dorothy's birth remained clouded in mystery. In 1922 Ruth announced that 16 months earlier a baby girl had been born at the Presbyterian hospital, New York, during the date of February 2, 1921. Mrs. Ruth, the same day, said the child was born at St. Vincent's, June 7, 1921.

Ruth later gave an explanation, saying he confused his own birthday with that of the child, but the rumor persisted that the child was adopted.

worked over the woman for three-quarters of an hour.

Sergeant Igoe learned that Dr. Kinder was at Boston Garden and sent a message to him. Then he called "Doc" John W. Dowd of St. Patrick's Church, who administered the last rites.

"After that we were talking on the piazza when we saw Dr. Kinder's car approaching. Father Dowd walked out to meet him and broke the news. Dr. Kinder started to weep, but Father Dowd, Igoe and myself held him up and helped him into the Burdard house. The man burst into the house from the face of the body on the floor, and Dr. Kinder took one look and then collapsed."

"He came to after a little, and was taken to his brother's home by Sergeant Igoe and myself. There he waited up and down, striking his hands together, putting his hand to his head, and moaning. He would say: 'She was a wonderful girl. A wonderful girl. Why did she have to go? Why didn't she come with me? My dear, dear girl!'"

"Then he'd jump back and forth again, wringing his hands and moaning."

"Medical Examiner West arrived, having viewed the body, and attempted to console Dr. Kinder. Then he told him he must have some data for his report."

"What is her full name?" he asked. "Mrs. Helen Kinder," the doctor answered.

"How old was she, doctor?" "Twenty-eight."

"Where was she born?" "South Boston."

"When the medical examiner asked where her father was born, Dr. Kinder said no attention, but started to walk up and down again, moaning and wringing his hands. Clinton said:

"Dr. West said he would not bother me any more at that time, but would get the rest of the details the next day. He then talked about the undertaker and it was arranged that doctor Igoe should notify an undertaker. Dr. West gave a certificate to a friend of Dr. Kinder, and instructed him to turn it over to the undertaker, Edward Doherty."

"I learned that there was a lot of valuable jewelry, letters and other valuables at the Kinder home, and went back there. I collected all the valuables and took them to the police station. I understood Dr. Kinder called for them the next morning."

Tufts Book Described Kinder as Samaritan

"The Explorer," the Tufts Dental School 1924 Year Book, says of Dr. Kinder:

"Edward Henry Kinder.—Large a heart has he,—runs the line of the English poet, and to no one can it be more fittingly applied than to our own Eddie. A friend in need is a friend indeed, and that friend was ever and always Eddie. In success or in trouble he was always to be found the good Samaritan."

"Eddie's steadiness and persistency will carry him to the top. He goes forth to battle the world with an open heart and a ready smile."

SO stated the New York World the morning after "Interference," Paramount's first All-Talking Picture was shown. "A new experience in talking pictures" said the Los Angeles Times. The day of the quality talking picture is here! In Paramount's hands a novelty now becomes the greatest entertainment of the day! ¶ For two years—from the first day sound pictures became possible—Paramount prepared. The same inventions and facilities for making pictures talk were open to all. Paramount experimented constantly to better them. The most advanced sound equipment was installed in Paramount's great studios in Hollywood and Long Island City. The Paramount producing organization—the best in the world—stars, writers and directors—was trained in the new medium. Outstanding Broadway stars and directors whose stage experience would be invaluable were engaged. ¶ Before the first camera turned on "Interference" it was a foregone conclusion that Paramount Talking Pictures would be the leaders. It is only what you, who have known the supreme Paramount Quality in "silent pictures" for so long, had the right to expect. ¶ And "Interference" is only the beginning. With all Paramount's great resources and unrivalled manpower working in this new medium, and Paramount Quality to maintain, Paramount Talking Pictures of the future will exceed even your fondest imaginings. ¶ Soon you will see and hear "The Canary Murder Case," Jeanne Eagels in "The Letter," "The Doctor's Secret," etc. ¶ Paramount All-Talking SHOWS present, in addition, sound, singing and talking short features of the same Paramount quality. Watch for newspaper announcements and be sure you see them all. Until you do, you will never know what marvelous entertainment the quality talking picture is. stant, Gerald J. Callahan, are to confer tomorrow with District Attorney Foley and Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle, it was announced today by Callahan.

District Attorney Foley stands ready to call the Suffolk County Grand Jury to investigate, according to his own announcement.

As these developments came on Sunday afternoon, the Council was convening in its regular weekly session with a letter from the mayor on the election of a president.

Indications were that Council Fitzgerald would have eight or nine votes, and Council William G. Lynch, 10 votes, with the rest as tie.

Some bitterness remained among the 13 members named as seeking votes of 10 each for their vote on Sunday last, but it was not thought that this would be a factor in today's proceedings. Councilors did not expect anyone to be elected at the meeting. Nor was this expected.

Neither Work Nor Play in Sight for Governor Small

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14 (AP)—Tom Small became a private citizen today and ended a tempestuous eight-year reign as governor of Illinois.

Of his many disappointments and regrets, the one which seemed to weigh most heavily with the little gray-haired man, who for years has been a warm center and subject of bitter attacks, was the fact that he had never learned to play.

Work always occupied the governor's waking hours and his relaxation was sleep, he explained. As he prepared to leave for the south, he ventured the information he might learn to play golf.

"I leave office, a much poorer man, financially," he said, "but money counts for little. I'll always have enough to live." Two law suits marred his term as governor. He was acquitted on criminal charges that he withheld state money while state treasurer. Several days later his wife died.

3 Electrocuted in Penn. Prison

Belleville, Pa., Jan. 14 (INS)—Three men were electrocuted in a public execution here early today for murder by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Tony Lott, 38, of West Brownsville, was led to the chair without an outward trace of fear. He was followed by Benjamin Danowitz, 40, of Philadelphia, and Charles Miller, 22, also of Philadelphia. Lott had two cold and iron pills at Vetsburg, Pa. Danowitz killed his second wife, and Miller was convicted of the murder of a Philadelphia theater in a holdup.

U. S. GIL DES OF POISONING IN FRANCE

Nice, France, Jan. 14 (INS)—Police investigating the death of Betty Callender of Montclair, N. J., declared today she died from an overdose of veronal which may have been taken with suicidal intent, owing to dependency.

Miss Callender, who was 27, died last night in a hospital.

Miss Callender arrived in Nice on Jan. 4, accompanied by her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bruckenkamp, the tourist.

The three Americans rented a villa and lived together. Miss Callender left the villa alone, but was found yesterday in a hotel. She was found on the floor. She was rushed to a hospital, but the doctors could not save her.

and equipped with

New Type Electro-Dynamic Speaker

Philco engineers have perfected the Dynamic Speaker!

Gone the "rain-barrel" effect! Gone the unnatural emphasis on the low tones. No more is the melody lost in the unmusical "boom, boom, boom" of the bass. No more blurred and unnatural speech.

In the New Type Electro-Dynamic Speaker, Philco engineers have restored the high tones to their proper place, while preserving the pleasing background of the lows. Music reaches your ears with correct emphasis on the melody in relation to the bass. Speech is wonderfully clear and distinct. The whole effect is startlingly true to life.

And volume! You can turn on the power till the volume is even too loud for comfortable reception—and still there is no distortion, no rattle. All the sparkle and brilliance of the original tone is RE-produced.

The secret of the amazing efficiency of the Philco Electro-Dynamic Speaker lies in seven major improvements of exclusive Philco design. Fully explained in the Free Philco Booklet. See coupon below.

No Aerial Needed

Philco needs no aerial for local and many distant stations. All electric—entirely dry. Phonograph connection on the dial plate of Highboy and Lowboy models to play records electrically. Special range control cuts out local interference and separates distant stations. 8 tubes including rectifier, push-pull amplification. One dial control. Four condensers. Many other features fully described in Free Philco Booklet—Send coupon.

AND these new 1929 models contain Philco's own radio discovery—Neutrodyne-Plus—which has thrilled the radio world with its startling performance. Philco owners everywhere tell of results never before equalled in radio—distance range, selectivity and rare purity of tone.

Vast Distance Range

"8410 Radio Miles—including 6 Japanese stations," writes a user. And thousands more tell how Philco has brought distance back into its own. Superpower is the secret; power to break through interference; to bring in far distant programs at volume you can enjoy!

Split-Hair Selectivity

"88 Stations in a Single Night!"... "4 Stations on 3 Points of the Dial!"... records like these are the pride of Philco owners. Powerful stations confined to narrow limits on the dial. Sharp—clear—no "groping." And with a single dial!

Flawless Tone

"The tone is exceptionally beautiful!" writes a musician. Yes, flawless tone! High notes, pure and clear; low notes rendered in their true proportion—an actual RE-production of the tones before the microphone.

NOW—Greater Than Ever!

And now, in the new 1929 model, every quality that has made for such phenomenal performance in the Philco has been redoubled! 8 tubes now (including rectifier)—greater power than ever, greater response and even sharper tuning! Distance range that is nothing short of amazing! Tremendous volume without distortion.

An Astounding Value

And then—most surprising of all—Philco makes this superb quality radio available to you at a price of only $157 in an exquisite, full-length Console Cabinet. Today's greatest radio value!

FIGHTERS IN BIG GARDEN SHOW

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Frankness Notable in Tex' Character

By JACK DEMPSEY

TEX RICKARD was a man whose word was as good as another one's bond; he was always frank. He'd talk about things in an outright way, with no subterfuge.

Ask the newspaper man. Time after time he informed them in advance what he intended doing when it was greatly to his advantage not to have his plans made public.

He would always qualify these statements with a drawing. "Now don't go writing 'boonin' about that new-out until I tell you."

And the newspapermen always respected his confidence. You won't discover a fellow who knew his word in good, will you?

My first taste of Tex's frankness came, as I told you before, when I was training for the Willard fight. He had been around looking Jess and then took a deep breath.

"You look awful little next to him, Jack," he said to me. "I kinda like a fellow that can shape up bigger. You really think you've got a chance to hit him?"

No soft soap, no kidding me along to jup up my confidence. The match had been made, and wasn't going to be unmade at that date.

But Tex thought I looked too small, and wasn't averse to telling me. At that fight he was given a different impression of the fight writers and what they knew about the game. Tex didn't honestly believe I had much of a chance to win the fight, but a lot of newspapermen did. They not only picked me, but some of them bet their money on me.

You don't get your money on a fellow just for the sake of sentiment at least those fellows who placed the upsets don't. There isn't any sentiment in it for them. It is just part of the job.

The understanding of Rickard's frankness came only with the passing years. The men who had known him in the Yukon and in Gold field knew that when he gave his word to do anything it was as good as done. The broadness of his experience.

In his first promotional venture Tex wanted Terry McCreven to go as his second in the Willard fight, and he was Joe Humphries, then manager of Terrible Terry, offering a $500 purse. That was just a laugh to Tex. He tore up the telegram, and never even bothered to answer it.

In the years that Humphries has been announced at Madison Square Garden he came to know what Rickard's word meant. Where a dime or a million dollars was involved, Tex didn't have to put his name on it.

Cardinal principle in Rickard's business program always was honesty. When I had won the heavyweight championship of the world he said to me, as he had said to others: "You've got it now, Jack. You'll make a lot of money. That's swell, but you don't know what will happen in the future."

"Always keep your credit good. If you owe a guy a dollar and can't pay it, look him up and give him a quarter and tell him why the hell it isn't there. Then you can look the world in the eye and when you want to borrow a million there'll be someone who will let you have it."

There were times when Tex had to borrow and couldn't pay—back there in the old days. But he had the courage and the frankness to tell his debtors just what was what. That's why he went right along and met the respect and confidence of everybody.

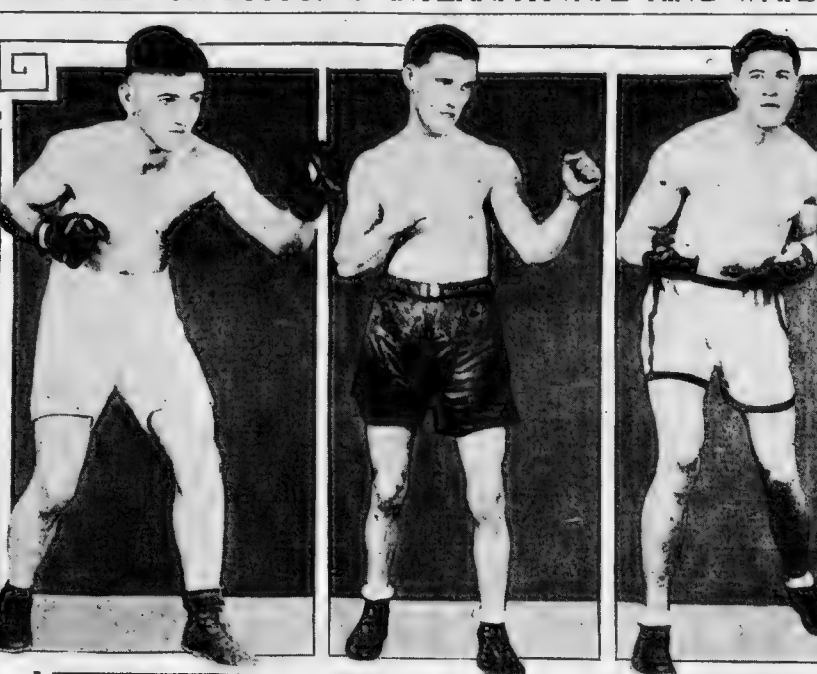

HATS why, when he went to Richard Hoy and William F. Carey about financing the new Madison Square Garden they were willing to meet him more than half way.

His credit was good. His word was better than a bond. You can't get away from success without a record like that—and it's building that record and keeping it bright was the biggest business of a life.

Tex took the world in the eye. That was Tex Rickard. Name me a man he couldn't look in the eye after all his wanderings and his crowded, busy life.

(This is the first article of "Rickard and the Ring," by Jack Dempsey. The second will appear tomorrow.)

BATTLE FOR BOSTON IN INTERNATIONAL RING WARS

TOM RAWSON

JACK NORTON

TOM MCCREELY

Tom Rawson fights in the 135-pound class tonight at the Garden. He is a capable battler. Tom must step at top speed to down the classy boys he meets this evening.

Jack Norton, in the 126-pound class, is a great little warrior. He has a lot of boxing ability. If Jack wins through tonight he deserves all the fame he'll get.

Tom has beaten all the good amateur heavies in New England. He is an amateur who should make good if he enters the pro ranks.

Owen and Lane Are Hockey Opponents

By BILL GRIMES

Five years ago, George Owen and Myles Lane were playing defense for the Boston Hockey Club. Today they are the only American college players in the National Hockey League.

Still more important, they will oppose each other tomorrow night at the Garden, where the Bruins and the Rangers are to meet.

When Owen and Lane were playing for the Boston Hockey Club, Owen was not out of college and Lane was in prep school. Owen had a splendid future as a hockey player, which he has proved in the Bruins.

BAER FACTS
by Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

So far as talking pictures are concerned, we are afraid that everything is going to be all right.
The first one we heard about had imitations of birds, bees and animals.
The general effect of the second was somewhat about the tempo that you would obtain by cracking the portrait of your grandpa with a ripe banjo.
But they are getting better now. We heard our first one in RKO's Army, formerly known as the Cathedral of the Cinema, and we were contented as the Garage of the Town Song.
One little talking picture doesn't disturb you much in a big place like RKO's.
There are some of the prominent chunks of talking pictures. When you walk down RKO's side in a parade of his actors, you realize that you are taking an active part in the first Coast-to-Coast marathon ever held indoors.
The waltz march stately, chant-ing an oblique with concrete flourishes. You are supposed to join in the chorus, for it is the theme song of the weekly feature.

FAMOUS LOVERS

By COLETTE DOUGLASS
THE story of Daphnis and Chloe is known wherever in the world there are lovers—and who can find a single tiny spot on this old earth where there are no lovers? For centuries their story has been handed down, particularly among the shepherds of idyllic to whom Daphnis is at once a hero and a god.
The story is told that Daphnis was the son of Hermes—in his character of the shepherd-god—and a nymph, Daphnis, found by the shepherds when he was newly born, in a grove of laurel, from which he derived his name.
He was brought up by the shepherds, and as time went on acquired his own flocks, which he tenderly cared for. Indeed, it is said that he was the inventor of bucolic poetry, inspired by his lonely hours while watching his flocks.
While Daphnis was very young he met the nymph Chloe, with whom he fell deeply in love. Chloe returned his love, but in her jealousy of the beautiful shepherd, she told him that if he was ever to be free, he must first win the love of his own flock.
But one so lovely could not fail to succeed, and as time went on Daphnis forgot his love for Chloe and failed to keep his promise. Chloe's heart broke at his betrayal, and she died.
Daphnis, the shepherd, was playing the flute and singing the songs which the shepherds loved, but he did not know that his beloved was dead.
The story of Daphnis has many versions. Theophrastus tells of his affair with Nais, his victory over his rivals, his death, and his resurrection, his love for Chloe, his naming of his flock, his death, suffering untold torment over

When It's Apple Blossom Time in Normandy

In 1817 George Cruikshank etched a series of plates which he called "The Battle, or the Bruskard's Family." Parliament ordered the series printed for its sobering effect. It is a pleasure to revive this campaign in the hope that its object may still be accomplished. These I related above, is captioned—
"THE BATTLE IS BROUGHT OUT FOR THE FIRST TIME: THE HUSBAND INDICES HIS WIFE JUST TO TAKE A DRUP."
Tomorrow you will see the consequences of just a drop-as drops go under such circumstances.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to incorporate the rattle of a cocktail shaker in the Great American Symphony?

RICKARD CHEER BRINGS DEATH TO FARR

Los Angeles, Jan. 14 (AP)—Another of the old west's links with its glamorous past is gone in the passing here of Wyatt Earp, gun fighter and lawman whose blazing six-shooter was notched a dozen times, were for most of his life allied on the sides of law and order.

Earp's so-called "raw" decision to fight the Bob Fitzsimmons-Tom Sharkey boxing fight at San Francisco December 2, 1896, when he awarded the fight to Sharkey on a foul in the eighth round, caused a roar that reverberated through the city.

Part of Earp's life ran parallel with that of Tex Rickard, and a last vain effort to send a word of cheer to his friend and promoter contributed to his death. Earp met Although he had been ill for some time, Earp left his bed here the day before Rickard died to send a telegram to his sick friend in Florida. The exertion caused a relapse and Earp died at the age of 30.
